The tyranny of the "greater good".

it simply consisted of trying to justify them on social grounds mere by substituting a society for God.

The ancient mystics held the arbitrary, unaccountable will of God as the standard of the good and as the foundation of their ethics. The neomystics replaced it with the good of society, thus bypassing all the complexity of a definition such as: the standard of the good is that which is good for society. This means, in logic and today in world-wide practice, that society stands above any principles of ethics, since it is the source, standard and criterion of ethics, since the good is whatever it wills, whatever it happens to assert as its own welfare and pleasure. This means that society may do anything it pleases, since the good is whatever it chooses to do because it chooses to do it. And since there is no such entity as society, since society is only a number of individual men—this meant that some men (the majority or any gang that claims to be its spokesman) are ethically entitled to pursue any whims (or any atrocities) they desire to pursue, while other men are ethically obliged to spend their lives in the service of that man's desires.

Oh My Brothers, the bezoomny chellovecks are going to give me a horror show tolchocking in my litso.

LYING EYES

The Charlie Hebdo Conspiracy Too Crazy Even for Alex Jones

The leve of disbelief to the official story is even too much for conspiracy theory HQ, Infowars.

Paul Joseph Watson, an editor at Infowars told me via email that the shooting deniers have been going after him.

"I have been bombarded with messages from people calling me a 'shill for not agreeing that the entire sequence of events was staged by crisis actors I was also attacked by these same people for asserting that the NYPD murders last month did in fact really happen."

"I'm happy to draw the ire of these people because I firmly believe that legitimate cover-ups are being obscured by the everything is a hoax crowd. Genuine skepticism about government malfeasance is being discredited by these people."

Watson himself posted a video to YouTube which discussed the shooting denialism. His video, he says, was inexplicably and repeatedly removed from the video-sharing platform.

FT calls victims of #ParisShooting "stupid" for daring to offend Muslims.
youtube.com/watch?v=N9J-jg .

> Two years ago it published a 65-page strip cartoon book portraying the Prophet's life. And this week it gave special coverage to Soumission ("Submission"), a new novel by Michel Houellebecq, the idiosyncratic author, which depicts France in the grip of an Islamic regime led by a Muslim president.
> In other words, Charlie Hebdo has a long record of mocking, baiting and needling French Muslims. If the magazine stops just short of outright insults, it is nevertheless not the most convincing champion of the principle of freedom of speech. France is the land of Voltaire, but too often editorial foolishness has prevailed at Charlie Hebdo.
> This is not in the slightest to condone the murderers, who must be caught and punished, or to suggest that freedom of expression should not extend to satirical portrayals of religion. It is merely to say that some common sense would be useful at publications such as Charlie Hebdo, and Denmark's Jyllands-Posten, which purport to strike a blow for freedom when they

On teaching biblical values rather than biblical science.

not because Kansans are primitives but because a religious people has tried to bring the fruits of faith, the teachings and higher values of religion, into the schools and been stymied

The result is a kind of perverse Law of Conservation of Faith. Block all teaching of religious ideas? Okay, we'll sneak them in through biology.

This is nutty. It has kids looking for God in all the wrong places. For the purposes of a pluralist society, the Bible is not about fact. It is about values. If we were a bit more tolerant about allowing the teaching of biblical values as ethics, we d find far less pressure for the teaching of biblical tables as science.

Hailey ▶ Breastfeeding

Mothers who breastfeed boy babies need to stop. We need to empower more females in this world and by breastfeeding them we're giving them a good start in life which they deserve over a baby boy which are already physically stronger than baby girls. I have feminist views and I am not ashamed to admit that. No boy baby will ever be fed from my breasts if I am unfortunate enough to have a son. Formula for him and circumcision to take away sexual pleasure from him when he grows up.

Liberals are so obsessed with being 'offended', they will invent new races of people to claim someone is racist.

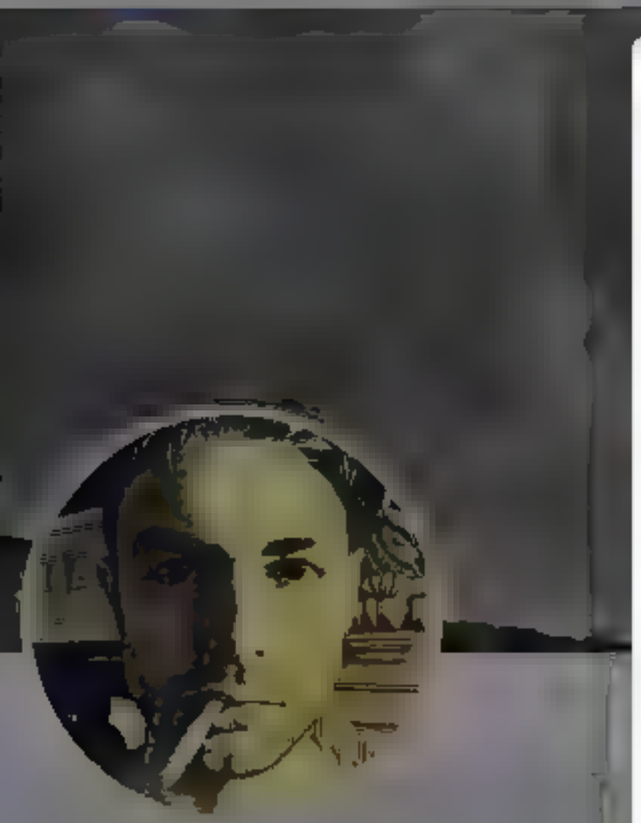
bother u. but it's offensive, racist & let's make an example of her

Jo Gray
lol get her off TV and out of the press cos she's an attention seeker

Jo Gray
she's a bad bad lassie

Paul Joseph Watson
never knew Glaswegian was a "race" of people

Jo Gray
oh yes it is its an awesome race lol



Jo Gray
but seriously when I say race it obviously means racist towards Scotland not just people in Glasgow!

Paul Joseph Watson

Thankfully, there are educators out there like Professor Michael J. Higdon, who teaches at the University of Tennessee Law School and brings these cases to light. Higdon has an article on this topic titled "Fatherhood by Conscription. Nonconsensual Insemination and the Duty of Child Support." In the article, Higdon describes three different cases of men who have been forced to be fathers against their will. One case involves a young man only fifteen years old named Nathaniel, who had sex with a thirty-four-year-old woman, Ricci, about five times. "The media's role in whipping up a contrived narrative based around racism and cop-hating in the aftermath of the Michael Brown verdict was a key contributing factor to the murder of two NYPD officers."

Where is the evidence to support this conclusion? While I agree that the establishment and media which serves it are deliberately promoting race war as part of their standard tactic of divide-and-rule, the fact that police have killed unarmed men is obviously provocation enough to those inclined to seek revenge without any media prompting. Where Michael Brown's hands were is irrelevant, the key point is he was unarmed and thus did not need to be shot in the alone six times. Watson claims to be a libertarian, yet would give police the right to shoot and kill anyone they deem to be hostile to them, obviously that includes many of the Infowars audience. Speaking of which, there is an obvious parallel with the case of Jerad and Amanda

Today I had to say bye to my father. He was their for me everyday of my life, he was the best father I could ask for. It's horrible that someone gets shot dead just for being a police officer. Everyone says they hate cops but they are the people that they call for help. I will always love you and I will never forget you. RIP Dad.

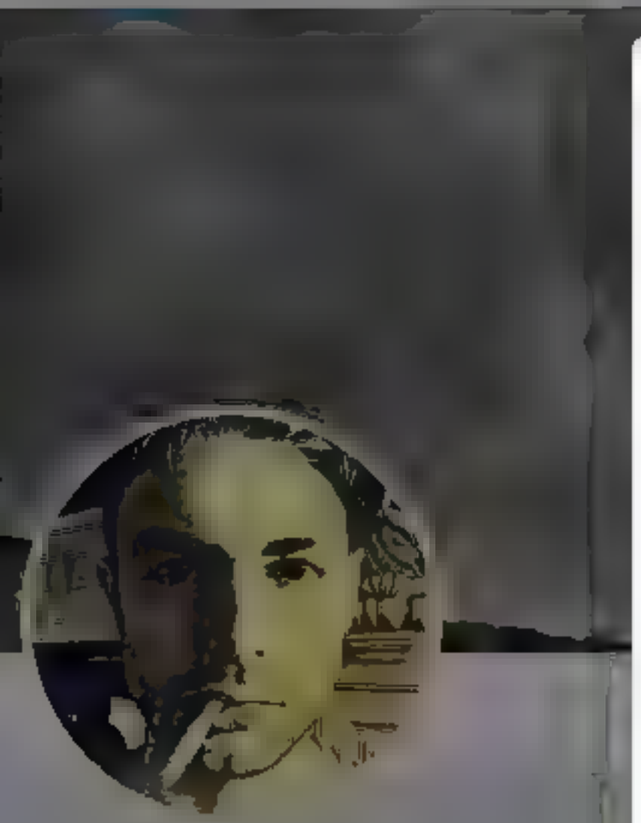
...keep plummeting. According to men's activists Glenn Sacks and Dianna Thompson:

> The US marriage rate has dipped 40% over the past four decades, to its lowest point ever. There are many plausible explanations for this trend, but one of the least mentioned is that American men, in the face of a family court system which is hopelessly stacked against them, have subconsciously launched a "marriage strike."[6]



...reasons that men are not marrying, and

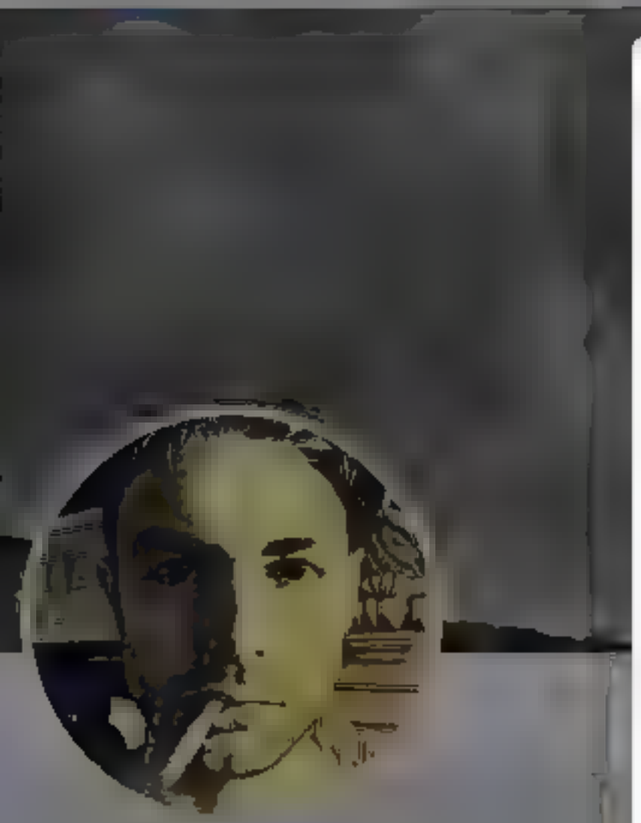
Shit conspiracy theorists say....



> Paul. The Draco reptilians will not manage to use their japanese hadron collider to alter earth's timeline to extend their stargate potential for alpha drac. They will leave in 2016. The satanic illuminate will go for a power grab with a fake alien invasion. The gandalf illuminate will use mantid protection to defeat them. The future is bright. A cashless society of anti gravity and free power joy and an end to reptilian rule. When will you start reporting this, rather than your low end macro economical crap?

Aphex Twin on Alex Jones: "He's a total warrior." We gotta get him on the show!....Via @FluorescentGrey @AphexTwin the division isn't between good and bad or true and false but interesting and boring. He's drawn to prickly, controversial outsiders such as Wikileaks founder Julian Assange. "He must have the biggest balls in the universe", New Age thinker David Wilcock and Alex Jones, the perpetually furious, possibly insane host of conspiracy theorist site Infowars. "He's funny as fuck, that guy. He fucks it up for himself so badly, but he's just totally passionate - he's a total warrior."

I ask James to define his own politics.

"Ooh," he exhales. "Where do you start? The whole world is totally fucked, basically."

James says his stay in London has been marred by the sight of "chemtrails", a term used by conspiracy theorists who believe aircraft contrails are used to spray chemical agents for nefarious reasons. He believes 9/11 was "absolutely" an inside job. "When you follow stuff on the internet about Illuminati, New World Order, aliens, even if none of it's true, it's just a thousand times better than any science fiction film that's ever been written," he reasons.

But do you

I'm struck by the fact that in this and other videos on the subject posted around the same time Watson describes it as merely "possible" that the purported victims are actually even dead whereas now he sneers at "CONSPIRACY theorists" (sneering MSM tone) who dare to suggest that e.g. the Charlie Hebdo incident was a false flag. To my mind a less controversial allegation. He also scoffs at the notion of crisis actors yet how is alleging their use different from suggesting that purported ISIS executon victims collaborated in faking their own deaths on video?

Screenshot from document which trains U.S. troops to use "lethal response" against "unarmed civilians." within U.S.

Crowd Control	Lethal Response
	Sniper Response	Small Arms Direct Fire	Aerial Fires	Indirect Fires
Unarmed civilians	• Ensure that target leaders or troublemakers are targeted. • Use the minimum response necessary • Exploit the psychological effect of an attack.	• Determine that sniper response is insufficient. • Consider demonstrating capabilities. • Exploit the psychological effect of a lethal response. • Escalate gradually starting with a small caliber single round and work up to a large caliber automatic	• Determine that small arms direct fire is ineffective • Use the minimum response necessary • Use a minimal precision strike initially; use subsequent fires based on the situation • Exploit the psychological impact of each strike	• Determine that air assets are unavailable or ineffective. • Use the minimum response necessary • Ensure that the response is directed by the on-site commander
Armed civilians (knives, clubs)	• Close air support and indirect fires must be authorized. • Consider requesting permission for use when— ▪ All lesser means have been ineffective ▪ There are physical eyes on the target. ▪ Proximity to civilians has been considered. ▪ Prudent risk to friendly forces and evacuees outweighs the prudent risk of collateral damage

The human brain is more powerful and uses less energy than all of the NSA's supercomputers combined.

[illegible] migrate to the fact that today's capitalism with all its benefits and flaws is focused on the one billion rich whose aggregate annual income is one trillion dollars a year, but they are spending their money foolishly within the industrial-era paradigm that places the power of money in the hands of banks, corporations and governments, which are corrupt and focused on concentrating old wealth rather than creating new wealth.[12]

My appreciation for the human brain was inspired by James Bamford's discovery[13] that a single human brain is more powerful, using less energy, in a small container, than all the National Security Agency computers combined. Combine this with the insights from C.K. Prahalad's

Panarchy: Does this broadly define the spirit behind what Ethereum is working towards? @stepnantual @ethereumproject

Panarchy

Panarchy is an ideal condition in which every individual would be connected to all relevant information and able to participate in every decision of interest to them, from local to global. Panarchy thus represents direct democracy within a nonhierarchical, opensource context. In the ideal state of panarchy, every citizen is fully actualized, deeply steeped in integrity and intelligence, and able to participate creatively in the constant social reproduction of their world."

Panarchy is a conceptual term coined in 1860 by Belgian botanist and economist Emile de Puydt. It refers to government, but a form of complete integrated governance that encompasses all other forms of organization. Other terms coined in this timeframe include "ecology," referring to an integrated system of living things, with the People radically change their behavior when they know they are being watched.

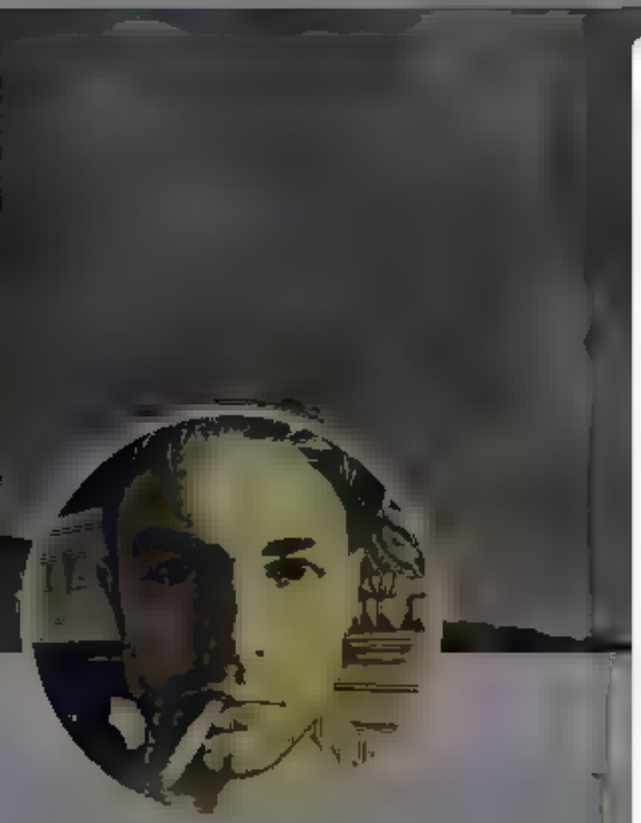
NO P ACE TO HIDE

"The principle which protects personal writings and all other personal productions, not against theft and physical appropriation but against publication in any form, is in reality not the principle of private property but that of an inviolate personality"



Privacy is essential to human freedom and happiness for reasons that are rarely discussed but instinctively understood by most people as evidenced by the lengths to which they go to protect their own. To begin with, people radically change their behavior when they know they are being watched. They will strive to do that which is expected of them. They want to avoid shame and condemnation. They do so by [illegible] to accepted social practices, by staying within imposed

Snowden's early moral reasoning – drawn from work that formed, as he said, "a model for who we want to become, and why"—had evolved into serious adult introspection about ethical obligations and psychological limits. "What keeps a person passive and compliant," he explained, "is fear of repercussions, but once you let go of your attachment to things that don't ultimately matter—money, career, physical safety—you can overcome that fear."

Equally central to his worldview was the unprecedented value of the Internet. As for many of his generation, "the Internet" for him wasn't some isolated tool to use for discrete tasks. It was the world in which his mind and personality developed, a place unto itself that offered freedom, [illegible]standing.
